Many of the supplies you provide will go into class community bins, which will then be divided up amongst students. Sometimes students can be competitive or feel attached to a particular pencil set that they feel is special and that in turn could create discord. Having community supplies that are then divided up evenly amongst the class will ensure that all students in the class have what they need. It also sends a message that everyone in the classroom is equal, that access to material is the same for everyone, and that learning will be a joint adventure for the year.

If you have any questions about purchasing supplies please do not hesitate to contact your teacher.
